

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES UNITE IN FEEDING THE ALLIES

ENGLISH-SPEAKING NATIONS IN CLOSER BOND

The Results of the British War Mission to the United States Will Have a Far-Reaching Effect, Making It Possible for the U. S. To Co-Operate More Fully With the Allies

The British war mission left American soil after six weeks' of conferences which have reached into every phase of American life and are expected vitally to affect the future of the U. S. if not of the world.

Uncle Sam now knows the Allies' needs in detail and in the order of their importance, the Allies know America's resources and the degree of their availability. Thus it is possible for the United States to enter

While there have been no formal agreements or binding treaties, Great Britain and the United States undoubtedly have been placed on a closer basis of friendship than at any time since the separation a century and a quarter ago, and Mr. Balfour, who was in the U.S. longer than any previous foreign secretary had been away from London since the Napoleonic wars, has seen realized the life dream of closer sympathy between the two great branches of the English speaking people.

The most far-reaching understandings arrived at have been in trade matters. In general the United States will give the Allies preferential treatment in commerce. Details, however, could not be agreed upon, as congress has not yet passed the legislation necessary to deal with embargo, trading with the enemy, control of cargo space, and the like.

reached to cover both American and Canadian wheat for sale to the Allied wheat executive. Canada will co-operate fully with the U.S., probably through the proposed food administration bureau, and will agree to the control of prices if that policy be adopted in legislation now before the U.S. congress. The wheat executive committee has supplied the figures of its needs, expressed confidence that they can be met, and shown how the results will be allotted among the various Allies.

The Allies' buying committee, though without price control. The council of national defence has charged itself with so increasing manufacture as to provide for the American army without cutting off exports vitally needed abroad.

The United States is considering the invitation extended by the British that all the Allies send permanent representatives to sit on the Allied commissions in London, including those on wheat, munitions, shipping and general supplies.

In finance the mission has secured government loans to Great Britain at

The British visitors were able to clear away many doubts as to military and political considerations in the Suez Canal area. The fruits of Great Britain's experience have been invaluable in guiding American officials and in making the United States policy more decisive on many points of policy. The mission found it necessary to leave a number of documents in Washington. It attaches to the embassy to help handle the enormous amount of new work developed. Lord Ismay, who is in the process of continuing trade discussion, and Geoffrey Butler, of the foreign office, will continue his series of talks to the president. The embassy has been taken as an overflow.

Dogs Play Part In War

Thousands of Unsung Red Cross Dog Heroes Which Have Been Killed

Sylvester Allerton of London, England, who is in the U.S. to purchase dogs for the Canine Relief Squads, a privately endowed organization in

"No one," he said, "can possibly realize the great work that dogs are doing in the great struggle abroad. The chivalry and heroism of the Red Cross dogs are perhaps well known.

But there are thousands of unsung canine heroes which have been killed, maimed and wounded while serving the cause of the allies.

One of the most remarkable companionships of dogs which has been such a boon to the men in the trenches, many of them have proved such excellent carriers of messages and aides in carrying out the duties of the trenches that their work is absolutely indispensable.

In our kennels in London we have twenty-five blinded dogs. They were blinded while doing the fighting. They came back. It is uncanny how they seem to realize that they have played their part in the greatest struggle of mankind in the greatest war of the world and they wait for their tails and frisk about just as much as to say "Don't pity us, we have done nothing." Many of them have been paralyzed by the concussion of the war. Some dogs are needed, not only at the front, but in families where there are no children, so that they may forget in a measure their losses. I have read where there is a law in New York state urging the killing of some dogs. If these law makers could see what the dogs have done in the war they would change their attitude."

Many a man's failure is due to his being afraid to try.

HOW BEACH GIRL WILL GREET THE WILD WAVES

A Rubber Skirt Distinguishes
a Jersey Model

A Suggestion of the Polonaise in This

EVERY darlin' daughter of Eve will want to go in for a swim when she sees how the bathing suits and accessories for this season are the very embodiment of smartness. At least, if she doesn't care to go in the water, she will be wild to join the beach parade.

There is a noticeable use of rubber for bathing suits. Just how it is used as trimming is evidenced in the gray suit with a blue sailor collar of rubber. A panel of the rubber also breaks the monotony of the skirt. The long bloomers, which make the knees look for all the world as tho they were bandaged, are a feature to be observed, since they form a part of many new suits.

The use of moiré ribbon on the bathing costume is out of the ordinary. In this instance yellow ribbon is used effectively on green taffeta. This silk, by the way, is very much in favor for water costumes. Of course, it is rubberized, and therefore will stand the water test. Whether it's to preserve symmetry, to give comfort or to be coquettish, one can't tell, but, anyhow, the way the ribbon is drawn beneath the chin and tied in a bow atop the cap is mighty pleasing.

Something quite new is the rubber skirt that completes a skirt that had its beginning in gray Jersey. For comfort the bloomers are of jersey, and for fashionable reasons the cap is too. Only the rolled trim is of rubber.
